

NodeJs allows us to write Single threaded application, but internally runs it as multithreaded application.

Because it provides multiple predefined asynchronous functions, it makes the code non-blocking.

